COMMITTEE REPORT NO. 60 ON SENATE BILL NO. 1620

Upon motion of Senator Drilon, there being no objection, the Body considered, on Second Reading, Senate Bill No. 1620 (Committee Report No. 60), entitled

AN ACT CREATING THE NA-TIONAL TRANSMISSION COMPANY (TRANSCO), TRANSFERRING NPC'S TRANSMISSION AND SUB-TRANSMISSION FUNCTION, NPC'S NATIONWIDE FRANCHISE, FOR TRANSMISSION AND SUB-TRANSMISSION AND SUB-TRANSMISSION, AS WELL AS THE RIGHT OF EMINENT DOMAIN TO THE NEW NATIONAL TRANSMIS-SION COMPANY.

Pursuant to Section 67, Rule XXIII of the Rules of the Senate, with the permission of the Body, only the title of the bill was read without prejudice to the insertion of its full text into the Record of the Senate.

The Chair recognized Senator Osmeña (J) for the sponsorship.

SPONSORSHIP SPEECH OF SENATOR OSMEÑA (J)

Senator Osmeña (J) underscored the importance of electricity in people's lives. He averred that the persistent power outages in the past stunted the country's growth; at present, many rural areas are without power yet the retail rates of electricity are second highest in Asia. The future demand for electricity is getting bigger, he said, but there is no funding for the required infrastructure to meet the demand. For a developing country like the Philippines, Senator Osmeña pointed out that the power industry is at the core of all efforts towards achieving economic and industrial progress but the sad state of the local power industry does not provide the assurance that the country can attain this national aspiration. He said that the high cost of electricity can be attributed to the following: difficulties of being an archipelagic country; inherent inefficiencies and cross-subsidies in the cost of power generation and transmission; technical inefficiency and mismanagement of some utilities; and improper consumption by misinformed end-users.

and the state of the state of the state of the state of the Senator Osmeña informed the Body that the demand for electricity is increasing at the rate of 6% per annum and to keep up with the demand, the government would need P48.8 billion annually for the construction, rehabilitation and upgrading of power plants as well as a similar amount for transmission and distribution. He said that the huge expenditure would drain the government's coffers and prejudice other vital services; on the other hand, increasing power rates would make the tariff rates for consumers the highest in Asia, if not in the world.

Senator Osmeña stated that the restructuring of the power sector is a complex process requiring careful study, a set of legislative actions, an extended time frame and a coordinated and convergent action by a number of executive agencies; as such, the best approach would be the passing of measures in sequence. Hence, he said, the Committee on Energy would be reporting to the Body five bills in sequence; the sixth bill would be reported out by the Committee on Government Corporations and Public Enterprises chaired by Senator Enrile.

Senator Osmeña explained that in restructuring the power industry, the Body should first create "the highway through which the electrons would travel" and such would be the TRANSCO which at present is part of the functions of the National Power Corporation. The bill, he said, seeks to separate the TRANSCO from the NPC by creating a distinct corporation to be given a capital of P200 billion, P120 billion of which would come from the transmission assets of NPC and the remaining P80 billion from a strategic partner to be chosen by the Department of Energy.

Sec. B. B. S. S. Strategy

Since 47% of the electric power supply in the country is controlled by independent power producers,
